Bungle Bungle Scenic Flight HCBG

See why this Western Australian tourism icon is World Heritage listed.

- Departing Halls Creek your flight heads northward, crossing the Panton River. On your approach to Alice Downs Homestead, the concentric rings of the McIntosh Hills can be seen to the northwest.
- The flight turns North East and descends to enter the aerial circuit over the Purnululu National Park, commonly known as the Bungle Bungle.
- Your flight crosses the Ord River, which is a mighty torrent in the wet season. The Belburn Airfield, operated by DPAW, can be seen below.
- Upon leaving the circuit, 3 rivers, the Elvire, Panton and Ord all join up and carve a single path across the landscape to empty into Lake Argyle to the north.
- The flight tracks south following the Albert Edward and Elvire Range, turning westward where features such as the China Wall - a lengthy vein of exposed Quartz, which seems to divide the Old Halls Creek township and present day Halls Creek.

Bungle Bungle Scenic & Ground Tour HCBG

- Your flight turns to the North East and after a short time crosses the Ord River while descending to enter the aerial circuit of the Purnululu National Park. You will notice the contrast between the sandstone cliffs to the west and Beehive domes rising to the east.
- On completing the circuit the flight descends to join other visitors to the National Park and Bellburn Camp airstrip.
- You are met by your ground operator, Bungle Bungle Guides Tours for a 4wd ride into the heart of the Bungles.
- Your 3km round walk takes you through Picanniny creek then along a gorge path that cuts the Beehive Domes. Take in the exotic flora unique to this area and photo opportunities should be taken.
- The walk stops halfway at the colossal Cathedral Gorge. This natural amphitheatre towers above you. Here you stop for lunch and to soak up the ambience and serenity.
- Upon leaving the Bungles, your flight crosses the 3 rivers- Elvire, Panton and Ord which join up to feed Lake Argyle and tracks along Albert Edward and Elvire range before turning westward.
- Before descending into Halls Creek you'll see Caroline Springs, Osmond Valley and China Wall - a lengthy, exposed quartz vein that seemingly divides old and present day Halls Creek townships.

Wolfe Creek Bungle Combo HCBC

Combine the spectacle that is Wolfe Creek Crater and the awesome Bungle Bungle.

- Departing Halls Creek your flight heads south crossing the edge of the Albert Edward Range. Much of the rugged terrain below is part of extensive and active pastoral properties.
- Passing over Ruby Plains Station the flight enters the expanse of the Great Sandy Desert, where two rivers cut their way across the desert like lifelines and in the distance the lonely shape of Wolfe Creek Crater seems to erupt from the desert floor.
- Following numerous orbits of the crater, allowing for extensive photo opportunities a course is set northward, passing overhead significant features such as, Sawtooth Gorge, Palm Springs Oasis, Ruby Queen and Mt Bradley Gold Mines, the Panton River and Alice Downs Homestead.
- The flight turns North East and descends to join the aerial circuit over the Purnululu National Park, commonly known as the Bungle Bungle. The contrast of the sheer sandstone walls to the west and the beehive shaped towers to the east offer fantastic photo opportunities.
- Upon leaving the circuit, 3 rivers, the Elvire, Panton and Ord all join up and carve a single path across the landscape to empty into Lake Argyle to the north.
- China Wall - a lengthy vein of exposed Quartz, which seems to divide the Old Halls Creek township and present day Halls Creek.
